DEVOTION - Doing God's Will (Part 2)

submitted by: William Nersesian

Last week's devotion proposed that giving up our own decision-making process and accepting God's will for our lives was perhaps the most challenging job a Christian faced. In determining to follow His will, our best effort will be intentional, from start to finish.

First, seek His will every day, in morning prayers, in Bible study and in daily living. Pray that God will make it obvious to you (discernment) what His will is for every aspect of your life.

Second, when you feel you are receiving direction from God, test it. Run it by a godly spouse or godly friends, people you trust in the Lord. Pray about this direction, that it would not happen if it is against God's true will. Any direction you receive should not contradict Scripture in any way, a sure sign that it is not a true message from the Lord. Remember, Satan can come as an angel of light and try to disguise a sinful message as a godly one.

Third, and most difficult, execute your intention to follow God's will. Taking action can be difficult when it interferes with normal daily activities or personal priorities. Most people know what to do, but actually following through is another story! Make a plan or an outline or leave yourself reminders. Have an "accountability partner" make sure you take action.

Following God's will is an extremely important and rewarding part of the Christian life. Make it a priority and be intentional about your action!

So is Jesus a slab of wood that leads from one room to another? We can obviously tell this is a figure of speech, but what is meant by this name?
